PROVIDERS PLAY A KEY ROLE IN FIGHTING TOBACCO USE AND DEPENDENCE

The number one cause of preventable death and disease in the United States is tobacco use and dependence. No matter what your specialty is, you know the drastic effects that tobacco use can have on patients. Many persons who use commercial tobacco products want to quit.

Getting started often takes support and motivation from a trusted source. If a physician advises a patient to quit just one time, it helps to double the patient's chance for success. Patients trust their health provider and they need guidance. It is vital to help the patients who are ready to quit tobacco. Primary care providers can make a difference in influencing tobacco use behavior. A short intervention (three minutes or less) can increase a person's motivation to quit.

Talk and listen to the patient about their tobacco use. Asking about 1.800.Quit.Now can be a conversation starter. Quit Now Indiana (QNI) is a free counseling service that uses different ways to help Hoosiers who use tobacco quit. QNI Tobacco Treatment Services include non-judgmental, member-focused coaching services via phone, text, and online chat. Coaches complete over 150 hours of rigorous training and evaluation accredited by the Council for Tobacco Treatment Training Programs and provide counseling with empathy, matching conversational style, and employing motivational interviewing skills. Learn more about the importance of talking with patients about tobacco use, and what services are included when a patient enrolls in QNI at: www.quitnowindiana.com/providers.

Greene County General Hospital Earns 2024 Performance Leadership Award

CONGRATULATIONS!

Linton, IN— Greene County General Hospital (GCGH) has earned a 2024 Performance Leadership Award for excellence in Patient Perspective. Compiled by The Chartis Center for Rural Health, the Performance Leadership Awards recognize top quartile performance (i.e., 75th percentile or above) among rural hospitals in Quality, Outcomes and/or Patient Perspective. GCGH is one of just 5 Indiana hospitals to receive this recognition in the category of Patient Perspective.

GCGH CEO Brenda Reetz says, "We are very grateful to receive this award and acknowledge that this recognition is because of our amazing staff. Greene County General Hospital is blessed with the best employees who are committed to providing wonderful care for our patients."

The Performance Leadership Awards are based on the results of the Chartis Rural Hospital Performance INDEX®, a comprehensive and objective framework for assessing how rural hospitals are performing. INDEX benchmarks are relied upon by rural hospitals, health systems with rural footprints, hospital associations, and state offices of rural health to measure performance across multiple areas impacting hospital operations and finance.

"The Performance Leadership Awards capture the commitment, diligence, and innovation with which America's rural hospitals approach the delivery of care within their communities," said Troy Brown, Network Consultant, The Chartis Center for Rural Health. "It's a tremendous honor to be able to recognize the efforts of this year's award winners and celebrate their achievement."

Greene County General Hospital

Each year, hospital administration team members accept nominations for this award. King was chosen for always going above and beyond for her team. Employees say King doesn't treat people as above her or below her, but with her. They say there is no job King will delegate that she won't do herself. Staff describe King as selfless and say she is always looking for ways to improve processes for the operating room, for the hospital, and most importantly, for our patients and the community. They say King genuinely cares for people, and it shows every day.

King received her Associate of Science in Nursing from Vincennes University in 2012. She then received her Bachelor of Science in Nursing from Indiana University in 2013 and went on to earn a Master of Science in Nursing Administration from Ball State University in 2020. In addition to GCGH, King's nursing career has taken her to Sullivan County Community Hospital, The Pain Clinic, and Terre Haute Surgical Center. She previously worked at GCGH's Covid Vaccine Clinic before being named GCGH Director of Surgical Services in 2021. King says she had planned on becoming a Nurse Practitioner until the leadership opening at GCGH presented itself. King says she is so glad she took the opportunity. "I love working at Greene County General Hospital. There is something special about working in your hometown. Our surgery team is awesome! They make coming to work enjoyable and take such great care of our patients. I have learned so much from coworkers and some of the best mentors while I have been at GCGH.", says King.

King lives in Linton and is married with two daughters. She says when she's not at one of her daughters' sporting events, she and her family enjoy going to IU Basketball games and spending time at the lake. King also likes to read and garden.

Update on the new office building at Sullivan County Community Hospital

SULLIVAN, Ind. (WTWO/WAWV) — The Sullivan County Community Hospital is nearing the finish line on its new 30,000-square-foot building.

Its CFO Jim Bishop said the new building is going to be the new home for several programs that are bringing in more people every day.

“The biggest impact is going to be more floor space because our programs continue to grow here,” said Bishop. “The existing service lines are growing, pain management, podiatry, and orthopedics are going to get a lot more room to expand and see more patients.”

The more patients these programs are able to provide for, the more people are going to be able to stay in town for their health care.

“Transportation is a really big issue for people in the community and they don’t want to have to drive and go get care in other cities,” said Bishop. “I think it is really important to continue to expand our footprint here and offer more services.”

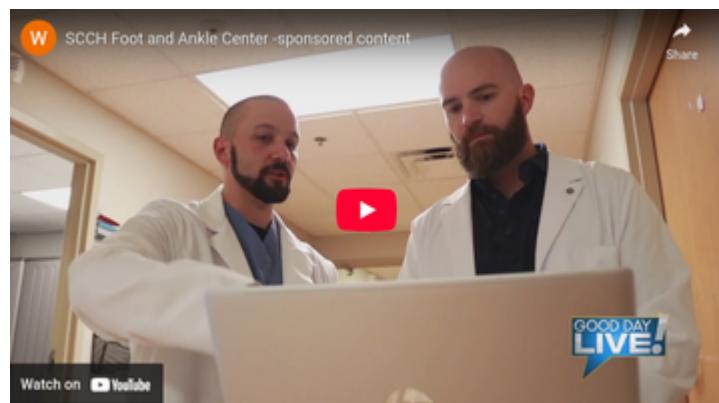

Bishop said they expect the building to be open by April of 2025 and to move in by May of 2025.

In the summer of 2025, the hospital is planning to begin work on another new building so it can expand its surgery, radiology, and pharmacy departments. It’s expected to be a 40-million-dollar project.
